

James Thorley Bio

James Thorley is the Regional Vice President for APAC and EMEA.

With over 20 years of experience in the education technology sector, James is an expert in developing and implementing strategies that enable technology to meet the needs of higher education institutions. He is passionate about sharing best practices around technology and policy adoption, with the goal of improving education across the region.

James is also an experienced speaker, presenting at various education events and conferences, including Times Higher Education and he has been featured across various media outlets and in print. His specialist topics include academic integrity, using technology to scale best practice and the impact of Generative AI.